

APPLE • GIFT GUIDE

7 non-Apple gifts for Apple-lovers

This is the most useful gift guide you'll read all season. Why? Because it's all about gifts for Apple-lovers and just about everybody's an Apple-lover (except for those Android bastards).

You can't just get an Apple fan an iPod or an iPad for a gift; they've already got those. An iPhone case? Please. No, if you're going to surprise and delight the Apple fan on your list you're going to need to think creatively. Or else, you know, just buy one of these seven suggestions.

1. Tivoli Connector

No company comes closer to matching the Apple aesthetic than Tivoli, which is part of the reason why its new audio dock, The Connector, is an ideal gift for the iPhone or iPod user on your list. This dock is simple, minimal, and elegant as hell. The other reason to get it is because it delivers Tivoli's uncompromising audio quality and will make your recipient's MP3s and AACs sound better than ever. It works with any radio with a standard audio port, and comes with a slim remote control. It's shown here with Tivoli's Model 10 radio.

Price: $124.99